BENATOR PLATT'S TRIBUTE TO THE COLONEL-CONGRESSMAN QUIGG TO TAKE A REST.

Republican leaders at the headquarters of the State Committee in the Fifth Avenue Hotel were still rejoicing yesterday over the election of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt as Governor, and of the other candidates on the State ticket. No man among them was happier than Benjamin B. Odell, jr., chairman of the Republican State | Mar Committee, who had worked with all his might for weeks to make sure of getting out the full Republican vote. Mr. Odell might have been re-elected to Congress, but he declined a renomination in his district after he accepted the chairmanship of the State Committee, declaring dications point to the election of Sage (Dem ). that he would devote all his time and energy in the campaign to the interests of the State ticket, and would not be a candidate for any office. Mr. Odell and Colonel Rooseveit worked together like friends and brothers all through the campaign, and the candidate for Governor to decide. knew that he had no more loyal supporter in the fight than the chairman of the State Com-

I do not believe that the canals had much to do with the election. The influence of the brewers was felt in several counties. I think Colonel Roosevelt's plurality will be about thirty State Senators and eighty-eight Assemblymen, thus having a good majority in the Legislature. I was surprised at the defeat of Congressman Quigg in this city, but not so

He had nothing to add, he said, to his expression regarding Colonel Rooseveit's election which he had made at the hotel, as follows:

Besides his strong personality he possesses remarkable physical resources, which were no small factor in the campaign just effect. Indeed, I know of no other man who would have been able to conduct the canvass he has made without breaking down before the schedule was three-fourths completed. The Republicans of New-York State are indebted to Colonel Roosevelt in he small degree for our splendid triumph to-day, and he has my heartiest congratulation and best wishes."

Congressman Quigg did not go to the headquarters of the Republican County Committee yesterday, because he was too tired. He had yesterday, because he was too tired. ### THE SOLDIER VOTE.

CASES WHERE IT MAY CHANGE THE RE-SULT OF TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

FIELD REGISTERED AND ENTITLED TO VOTE. The vote of the New-York soldiers in the field may change the results of Tuesday's election in number of instances, as soon as it is received and canvassed. There are about eight thousand sol canvassed. There are about eight inclusion diera registered and entitled to vote, according to the Secretary of State John Painer. It is, of course, impossible to say how many of these will cast ballots, but there are a number of districts where the vote of the soldiers may throw the election from one party to the other, and several in which it undoubtedly will do so. NORTON AND MILLER MAY BE ELECTED.

Buffalo, Nov. 9.-It was estimated that the number of Buffale soldlers who voted in camp was about seven hundred, and it is thought that this vote may possibly affect the announced result of vesterdny's election in the cases of Norton (Rep.), for the Senate from the XLVIIth District, and Miller (Rep.), for Assembly from the VIth District both of whom were defeated, the former by 61 and the latter by 91 votes.

The Democrate are confident that the solder vote will not change the result, as in the two counties there are only about 45 volunteers, tea from Rensselaer being now in Manils. of business. The extensive public demand for securities was a feature of the market, the investors obviously not being worried by the possibility that, after all, the Democrats might control the House of Representatives. With a Republican President and a Republican Senate it was reasoned, and the certainty that a good many of the Democratic Representatives-elect are sound-money men, although they have refused to declare explicitly their position on the financial question, there would seem to be no possibility of the forcing through by the free-silver men of any legislation which could have the slightest effect as menacing the public faith and credit and the financial standing of the United States among the nations of the world. London, too, takes this view of the situation, for it was a large buyer in yesterday's local market. Indeed, the only persons who could see in the remote prospect of a Democratic House a danger to the revival of business were certain professional speculators.

CONFIDENCE OF THE BUSINESS WORLD. The business world in general looks confidently forward to a continuance and an increase of business activity and of prosperity. There are more ways of losing money in Wall Street than in stock speculation, and one of them is election betting. Tammany men have within the last year lost large sums in speculation, and now they have suffered sorely again in the loss of their wagers on the result of Tuesday's contest at the polls. Of course, it is not asserted that they are the only losers because of Croker's downfall as a would-be State boss, since a good many brokers and other business men also risked their money on Van Wyck; but it is believed that as a class they have been by far the heaviest losers-with Mr. Croker, if current reports be true, the hardest hit of them all, his losses, it is rumored, aggregating more than $50,000. Nearly $1,000,000 in all was staked on the Governorship, it is estimated. Among the largest winners through Roosevelt's success, it is said, are Jacob Field, Alfred de Cordova, who is said to have won more than $40,000; Wasserman Brothers, $22,000; Washington Seligman $12,000, and R. H. Halstead, $10,000. No hers were paid yesterday. It was reported that Bell & Co., who have handled most of the Tammany money; were refusing to pay the stakes to the successful bettors with whom they had put up money, on the ground that the Democratic State Committee had not yet formally conceded Roosevelt's election. Referring to these reports, E. B. Taicott, of Bell & Co., said yesterday: "Mr. Edason, our partner, will work all night to-night checking up bets, and expects to finish the work to-morrow. We expect to pay all the bets to-morrow. It is not customary to pay bets on the day after election, as it takes some time to check the bets. Betting men do not quibble over technicalities. The men we represent will pay their money promptly, and are not holding back on account of the soldier vote. About $500,000 has been bet in Wall Street, of which Bell & Co. have placed about

LIKELY TO PAY TO-DAY. At the Fifth Avenue Hotel, the Hoffman House and other hotels uptown where large bets were made before the election the holders of the largest stakes were not disposed to pay them over to the winners yesterday, and their refusal caused some grumbling. It was said that Croker's talk had made some of the stakeholders feel cautious, although there was no doubt of Colonel Roosevelt's election. The stakeholders said they probably would pay over the money won on Colonel Roosevelt's election

"The Standard," agreeing with "The Times," says:

From The Brooklyn Eagle.

"What is your opinion of the report that Rootevelt might not serve out his term, but go to the United States Senate or be the Presidential candidate in 1900".

"I do not think there is any truth in such rumors," said Air. Weselruff, in emphatic terms, "I think he will surely serve out his entire term as Governor, and, as for the Presidential candidate. I am in hearty accord with the senerally accepted theory among Republicans that President McKinley will be the Republican standard-bearer in 1990, as he was in 1895."
